SPRING SEMINAR SPEAKER LINDA BARNEY

The DPRRA: When Peggy & Sue Get Registered.

Is registration under California's Domestic Partner Rights and Responsibilities Act the same as marriage? The DPRRA profoundly changes the legal rights and duties of registered same-sex and unmarried senior partners. Linda Barney will discuss how the new law affects parent-child relationships, property, tort, probate, employment, and creditor rights. She will also touch on some legal issues yet to be resolved and the constitutional implications of tax code treatment of registered domestic partners, and federal and sister-state laws.

SPRING SEMINAR SPEAKER:

MAXWELL BLECHER

Since beginning a career in antitrust with the Department of Justice in 1956, Maxwell Blecher has tried more antitrust cases than any other lawyer, including numerous groundbreaking cases. Most recently, Max was chief trial counsel in Image Technical Services v. Eastman Kodak Co., which has been the subject of a Supreme Court decision, two Ninth Circuit decisions and extensive commentary.

Among his many other trials are Los Angeles Coliseum Commission v. NFL, which brought the Raiders to Los Angeles, Handgards v. Ethicon which challenged the use of bad faith patent litigation as an antitrust violation, the General Motors Chevrolet discount house cases and several cases for ITT in its early challenges to the vertically integrated telephone monopoly. Max also has been successful on the defense side most notably in United States v. Syufy Enterprises.

After leaving the Antitrust Division in 1963, Max practiced law with the late Mayor Joseph L. Alioto in San Francisco before establishing his own firm in Los Angeles in 1971.
